PIE Coffee Hour & Teaching Workshop Series

Come join fellow TAs and instructors discuss strategies and techniques that promote excellence in teaching and learning. Bring your questions, concerns, and ideas – We will provide the pie and coffee!

Not-So-New Media: Teaching Online
Presenter: Dr. Joseph Clark, Assistant Director for Instructional Development, Office of Distance Learning
Description: Asynchronous online courses can be a technical and pedagogical challenge. This session will provide an overview of best practices for setting up and delivering online courses at FSU: updating course sites, arranging for proctored exams, developing materials and assignments, using TurnItIn, and establishing good communication with students. Participants are encouraged to share their own experiences with online instruction.

Keeping Students Engaged
Presenter: Holly Widen, PIE Program Graduate Assistant, Department of Geography
Description: Join us as we collaboratively brainstorm ways to jumpstart your classroom through activities, student-centered discussions, and creating an engaging environment.

Time Management: How Can I Do Everything?
Presenter: Holly Hunt, Assistant Teaching Faculty, Academic Center for Excellence
Description: Graduate teaching assistants must learn to wear several hats at the same time: student, teacher, family member, and friend. Striking a healthy balance among these roles can be challenging. It may often seem like there’s not nearly enough time in the day to do all that needs to be done, let alone time to dedicate to playing each of these roles. This session will introduce graduate students to strategies and tools that can be used to more efficiently manage one’s time on a monthly, weekly and daily basis.
